

Fran arrives at Hamilton. Gregory's home in Littleburg, but finds him absent conducting the choir at a camp meeting. She repairs thither in search of him, laughs during the service and is asked to leave. Abbott Ashton, superintendent of echools, escorts Fran from the tent. He tells her Gregory is a wealthy man, deeply interested in charity work, and a pillar of the church. Ashton becomes greatly interested in Fran and while taking leave of her, holds her hand and is seen by Sapphira Clinton, eister of Robert Clinton, chairman of the school board. Fran tells Gregory she wants a home with him. Grace Noir, Gregory's private secretary, takes a violent dislike to Fran and advises her to go away at once. Fran hints at a twenty-year-old secret, and Gregory in agitation asks Grace to leave the room. Fran relates the story of how Gregory married a young girl at Springfield while attending college and then deserted her. Fran is the child of that marriage. Gregory had married his present wife three years before the death of Fran's mother. Fran takes a liking to Mrs. Gregory Gregory explains that Fran is the daughter of a very dear friend who is dead. Fran agrees to the story. Mrs. Gregory Insalts on her making her home with them and takes her to her arms. It is decided that Fran must go to school. Grace shows persistent interest in Gregory's story of his dead friend and hints that Fran may be an imposter. Fran declares that the secretary must go. Grace begins magging tactics in an effort of rive Fran Fran is ordered before Super-Intendent Ashton to be punished for insubordination in school. Chalrman Clinton is present. The affair ends in Fran leaving the school in company of the two men to the amazement of the scandal-mongers of the town.

CHAPTER X .- Continued.

"Lem me!" Jakey pleaded, with fine admiration.

"Well, I rather guess not!" cried Bob. "Think I'll refuse Fran's first re-He sped upstairs, uncommonly light of foot.

"Now," whispered Fran wickedly "let's run off and leave him." "I'm with you!" Abbott whispered

They burst from the building like a storm, Fran laughing musically, Abbott laughing joyously, Jakey laughing loudest of all. They sallied down the front walk under the artillery fire of hostile eyes from the green veranda They continued merry. Jakey even swaggered, fancying himself a part of it; he regretted his short trousers

When Robert Clinton overtook them he was red and breathless, but Fran's beribboned hat was clutched triumphantly in his hand. It was he who first discovered the ambuscade. He suddenly remembered, looked across the street, then fell, desperately wounded. The shots would have passed unheeded over Abbott's head, had not Fran or lied his attention to the ambuscade.

"It's a good thing," she said innocently, "that you're not holding my hand-" and she nodded toward the boarding house. Abbott looked, and turned for one despairing glance at Bob; the latter was without sign of

"What shall we do?" inquired Fran, as they halted ridiculously. "If we run for it, it'll make things worse " "Oh, Lord, yes!" groaned Bob; "don't make a bolt!

Abbott pretended not to understand. "Come on, Fran, I shall go home with you." His fighting blood was up. In his face was no surrender, no, not even to Grace Noir. "Come," he persisted, with dignity.

"How jolly!" Fran exclaimed. "Shall we go through the grove ?- that's the longest way."

Then let us go that way," responded Abbott stubbornly.

"Abbott." the school director warned, "you'd better come on over to my place-I'm going there this instant to get a cup of tea. It'll be best for you, old fellow, you listen to me. now-you need a little er-a-some-a little stimulant." "No," Abbott returned definitely. He had done nothing wrong, and he resented the accusing glances from across the way. "No, I'm going with "And don't you bother about him."

Fran called after the retreating chairman of the board, "he'll have stimulant enough.

CHAPTER XI.

The New Bridge at Midnight. It was almost time for summer vacation. Like all conscientious superintendents of public schools. Abbott Ashton found the closing week especially fatiguing. Examinations were nervetesting, and correction of examination papers called for late hours over the country solitude. Like all reprehens- ed in her lap. ible habits this one was presently to revenge itself by getting the "professor" into trouble

One beautiful moonlight night, he was nearing the suburbs, when he made a discovery. The discovery was twofold: First, that the real cause of his nightly wanderings was not altogether a weariness of mental toil: second, that he had, for some time, been trying to escape from the thought of roll of her acquaintances. Was she Fran. He had not known this. He reading a list from the package? had simply run, asking no questions. It was when he suddenly discovered floor Fran in the flesh, as she slipped along a crooked alley, gliding in shadows, that the cause of much sleeplessness was made tangible.

Abbott was greatly disturbed Why should Fran be stealthily darting down side-alleys at midnight? The wonder suggested its corollary-why was he running as from some intangible enemy? But now was no time for introspection, and he set himself the task of solving the new mystery. As Fran merged from the mouth of the alley, Abbott dived into its bowels, but when he reached the next street, no Fran vas to be seen. Had she darted into one of the scattered cabins that composed the fringe of Littleburg? At the mere thought. he felt a nameless shrinking of the heart, Surely not. But could she possibly, however fleet of foot, have rounded the next corner before his coming into the light? Abbott sped along the street that he might know the truth, though he realized that the less he saw of Fran the better. However, the thought of her being alone in the outskirts of the village, most assuredly without her guardian's knowledge, seemed to call him to duty. Call or no call, he went. It seemed to him a long time before he reached the corner. He darted around it-yonder sped Fran like a thin shadow racing before the moon. She ran. Abbott ran. It was like a foot-race without spectators.

At last she reached the bridge spanning a ravine in whose far depths murmured a little stream. The bridge was new, built to replace the footbridge upon which Abbott and Ernr had stood on the night of the tentmeeting. Was it possible that the superintendent of instruction was about to venture a second time across this ravine with the same girl, under the card." same danger of misunderstanding, revealed by similar glory of moonlight? should escort her to Hamilton Gregory's very door, that he might know she had been rescued from the wide white night; and his conscience was like cheeks, making the most fascinatpossibly upheld by the knowledge that ling picture he had ever beheld at mida sudden advent of a Miss Sapphira night under a silver moon. "Do you was morally impossible.

"But Whose Hearts Are We King and Queen Of?'

Fran's back had been toward him all the time. She was still unaware of his presence, as she paused in the middle of the bridge, and with critical lamp. Ashton had fallen into the eye sought a position mathematically reprehensible habit of bolting from the the same from either hand-rail, Stand- how much of a woman's seriousness boarding house, after the last paper ing there, she drew a package from was to be found in this girl. He rose the boards, and, oblivious of surroundfrom town as if to bathe his soul in ings, bent over the package as it rest-

Abbott, without pause, hurried up.

His feet sounded on the bridge. Fran was speaking aloud, and, on that account, did not hear him, as he came up behind her. "Grace Noir," she was saying-"Abbott Ashton-Bob Clinton - Hamilton Gregory - Mrs. Gregory-Simon Jefferson-Mrs. Jefferson—Miss Sapphira — Fran — the Devil—" She seemed to be calling the Abbott trod noisily on the fresh pine

Fran swiftly turned, and the moonbeams revealed a flush, yet she did not attempt to rise. "Why didn't you anwhen you heard your name called?" she asked with a good deal of | ized: composure.

"Fran!" Abbott exclaimed. "Here all alone at midnight-all alone! Is it possible?

"No. it Isn't possible," Fran returned satirically, "for I have company." Abbott warmly urged her to hasten back home; at the same time he drew nearer and discovered that her lap was covered with playing-cards.

"But you musn't stay here," he said mperatively. "Let us go at once." "Just as soon as I tell the fortunes. Of course I wouldn't go to all this trouble for nothing. Now look. This card is Fran-the queen of hearts This one is Simon Jefferson-and this one is Bob. And you-but it's no use elling all of them. Now; we want to ee who's going to marry."

Abbott spoke in his most authoriative tone: "Fran! Get up and come with me before somebody sees you here. This is not only ridiculous, it's wrong and dreadfully imprudent."

Fran looked up with flashing eyes. I won't!" she cried. "Not till I've told the fortunes. I'm not the girl to go away until she's done what she came to do." Then she added mildly "Abbott I just had to say it in that voice, so you'd know I meant it. Don't be cross with me." She shuffled the cards,

"But why must you stay out here to do it?" he groaned.

"Because this is a new bridge. I'd hate to be a professor, and not know that it has to be in the middle of a new bridge, at midnight, over running water, in the moonlight, Now you keep till and be nice; I want to see who going to get married. Here is Grace Noir, and here is Fran . . "And where am I?" asked Abbott, n an awed voice, as he bent down. Fran wouldn't tell him.

He bent over. "Oh, I see, I see!" he cried. "This is me-" he drew a card from the pack-"the king of hearts." He held it triumphantly, "Well, And you are the queen of hearts, you said." 'Maybe I am," said Fran, rather breathlessly, "but whose hearts are we king and queen of? That's what I want to find out." And she showed her teeth at him. 'We can draw and see," he suggest ed, sinking upon one knee. "And yet since you're the queen and I'm the king, it must be each other's hearts-He stopped abruptly at sight of her crimsoned cheeks.

"That doesn't always follow," Fran told him hastliy; "not by any means For here are other queens. See the queen of spades? Maybe you'll get up your mind, yet?" her. Maybe you want her. You see, she either goes to you, or to the next

"But I don't want any queen of spades," Abbott declared. He drew Conscience whispered that it would the next card, and exclaimed dramaticnot be enough simply to warn; he ally, "Saved, saved! Here's Bob. Give her to Bob Clinton."

"Oh, Abbott!" Fran exclaimed, looking at him with starlike eyes and rose mean that? Remember you're on a new bridge over running water.' Abbott paused uneasily. She looked less like a child than he had ever seen her. Her body was very slight-but her face was . . . It is marvelous ment he had rather forgotten himself. He reminded her gravely-"We are talking about cards-just cards."

"Sh-h-h! Mum!"

face glowing.

wish, Fran?"

we part."

earnestly.

ence."

swered.

rich!

opening her eyes wide. With slow steps they walked side by side, shoulder to shoulder, four hands clasped.

Fran's great dark eyes were set fixedly upon space as they solemnly pa-

The last plank was crossed. "Now!"

"That I might succeed." Abbott an

"Oh!" said Fran "My! That wa like a cold breath. Just wishing to be great, and famous, and useful, and Abbott laughed as light-heartedly as if the road were not calling him away make that come true," he declared.

"Will you? Then I'm going to tell you all about myself-ready to be sur-other. In the first place, I am eighteen years old, and in the second place I am a professional lion-trainer, and in the third place my father is-but friends don't have to know each other's fathers. Besides, maybe that's

"Yes," said Abbott, "It is." He paused, but she could not guess his emotions, for his face showed nothing but a sort of blankness. "I should like to take this up seriatim. You tell

-And have had lots of experi-

"Your lion-training; has it been theo-

"But, Fran," said Abbott helplessly, and gold stars and crimson sashes,

Abbott was unable to analyze his real emotions, and his one endeavor was to hide his perplexity. He had always treated her as if she were older than the town supposed, hence the revelation of her age did not so much matter; but lion-training was so remote from conventions that it seemed in a way almost uncanny. It seemed to isolate Fran, to set her coldly apart

"I'm going home," Fran said ab

He followed her mechanically, too

The moon had not been laughing at them long, before Fran looked back over her shoulder and said, as if he had spoken, "Still, I'd like for you to

He quickened his step to regain her side, but was oppressed by an odd

"Although," she added indistinctly.

They walked on in silence until, aft-ter prolonged besitation, he told her quietly that he would like to hear all

She looked at him steadily: "Can you dilute a few words with the water of your imagination, to cover a life?

CTO BE CONTINUEDO

Ammonia water that has been used for washing may be used for plants.

I'll speak the words, if you have the

from the people of his world.

what to think.

know about it."

sense of the abnormal.

she felt disposed to tell.

"It doesn't matter."

imagination."

kissing my hands to the audience, that I'm the real princess."

me you are eighteen years old?"

party and his platform."

enough to start with."

raded beneath the watchful moon.

the night stole into his blood.

whispered Fran.

"No," said Fran, not stirring, "we are talking about Grace Noir. You say you don't want her; you've already drawn vourself out. That leaves her to poor Bob-he'll have to take her, unless the joker gets the lady-the joker is named the devil . . . So the game isn't interesting any more.' She threw down all the cards, and looked up, beaming. "My! but I'm glad you came."

He was fascinated and could not move, though as convinced as at the beginning that they should not linger, from solltudes. "Well, what did you thus. There might be fatal consequences; but the charm of the little girl seemed to temper this chill knowledge to the shorn lamb. He tempor-"Why don't you go on with your fortune-telling, little girl?"

"I just wanted to find out if Grace Noir is going to get you," she said candidly: "It doesn't matter what becomes of her. Were you ever on this bridge before?"

"Fran, Miss Grace is one of the best friends I have, and-and everybody admires her. The fact that you don't like her, shows that you are not all you ought to be."

Fran's drooping head hid her face. Was she contrite, or mocking? Presently she looked up, her expression that of grave cheerfulness. "Now you've said what you thought you had to say," she remarked, "So that's over, Were you ever on this bridge before?' Abbott was offended. "No."

"Good, good!" with vivacious enthuslasm. "Both of us must cross it at the same time and make a wish. Help me up-quick." She reached up both hands, and Abbott lifted her to her feet. "Whenever you cross a new bridge," she explained, "you must make a wish. It'll come true. Won't you do it, Abretical or-" "Of course. What a superstitious "Mercenary," Fran responded; "real little Nonparell! Do you hold hands?" lions, real bars, real spectators, real "Honest hands-" She held out both pay days.' of hers. "Come on then. What are you going to wish, Abbott? But no, you "I don't understand." mustn't tell till we're across. Oh, I'm just dving to know! Have you made "Yes, Fran," he answered indulgently, "it's something always in my mind." "About Grace Noir?"

Fran Cried Breathlessly, "Now!" "What Did You Wish?"

"Nothing whatever about Miss Grace Noir."

"All right. I'm glad. Say this:

Don't talk or anything, just wish, oh, wish with all your might-

While we're together and after we part'say that"

Abbott repeated gravely:

With all my mind and all my heart "What are you going to wish, Fran?" It is an excellent fertilizer.

Hickman Heads Bankers' Group. Macon.-The new officers elected by group No. 1 of the Missouri Bunkers' association are: J. T. S. Hickman of Hannibal, chairman, and Charles A, Wardell of Macon, secretary, Coffee Burns Baby to Death. Bernice, infant child of Lee Carnahan, died from burns received when a pot of boiling coffee was overturned on her. At the time the child was lying in a baby buggy, which stood near the stove.

Linn Commissioners Select Roads. Linneus.-Linn county's highway commissioners have announced their selection of roads leading to Milan, Trenton, Chillicothe, Macon, Kirksville. These branch in six directions from Linneus.

May Deport Columbia Chinese. Columbia.-Harry C. Allen and H. R. Bennett, government officials from St. Louis, left here with two Chinese charged with having evaded the Chinese immigration act. The two Orientals probably will be deported.

Abbott watched her, the witchery of Farmer Slays Old Friend. Caruthersville.-Willis Young shot and killed Brad Meatte at Hayti, six Fran cried breathlessly, "what did you miles west of here. The men wish?" Her body was quivering, her been old friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Grisham Gets Divorce. Fulton.-Mrs. Mary Grisham of efferson City was granted a divorce rom Joseph W. Grisham and $5,000 alimony in gross by Judge David H. Harris of the Callaway county circuit court. The plaintiff charged indignities and failure to provide for family.

Jury Disagrees on Sentence.

"That you might always be my friend, while we're together, and after Fulton.-The jury in the trial of Edward Wilson, the negro accused of "It doesn't take a new bridge to murder, was discharged after deliberating 54 hours and reporting to She looked at him solemnly. "Do Judge David H. Harris that they could you understand the responsibilities of not agree. Five of the jurors are said to have held out for hanging and the being a friend? A friend has to assume obligations, just as when a man's remaining seven wanted to give him a elected to office, he must represent his life sentence. They had all agreed on a first-degree verdict. "I'll stand for you!" Abbott cried

Jasper Druggist Ends Own Life. Carthage .- John Closure, 49 years old, druggist, of Jasper, a small town prised? Friends ought to know each 11 miles north of Carthage, committed suicide by drinking poison.

Warrensburg to Hold Bond Vote. Warrensburg.-The city council of Warrensburg called an election for December 16 to vote $30,000 in bonds for street improvements.

Husband Slayer Out on Bond:

Hannibal,-Mrs. Mary S. England, charged with the murder of her husband, Henry England, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the common pleas court under a $2,500 bond. Although Mrs. England is charged with murder in the first degree the attorneys for the prosecution and defense agreed on a bond.

Former Sedalia Pastor Dies.

Mexico City, Mex.-The Rev. Ed-"But you're going to, before I'm mund A. Neville, an Episcopal minis-done with you. I tell you, I'm a showgirl, a lion-trainer, a jungler. I'm the eling to Mexico City after a visit to famous Fran Nonparell, and my car- the United States. In the United nival company has showed in most of States he held charges in Sedalia, the towns and cities of the United Mo., Cincinnati and Albany and Mun-States. It's when I'm in my blue silks | cie, Ind.

Heavy Divorce Docket in Audrain.

Mexico.-Not to be outdone by Calaway county, which reported six divorces for the next term of the circuit court, E. E. Elliott of the Audrain county circuit court, who has just made up his docket for the November term, reports 20 divorce cases for the term, which begins the third Monday in this month.

Mrs. Kellar Gets Life Term.

Harrisonville.-Mrs. Ida May Kellar, convicted of the murder of her husband, Arthur Kellar, and their 7absorbed in her revelation to think of year-old daughter, who were slain last the cards left forgotten on the bridge. June as they slept in their beds, was From their scene of good wishes, Fran denied a new trial and was sentenced went first, head erect, arms swinging by Judge Andrew A. Whitsitt to the defiantly; Abbott followed, not knowpenitentiary for life. ing in the least what to say, or even Experts Fight Hog Cholera.

Warrensburg .- Dr. J. W. Connaway, veterinarian at the Missouri University experiment station: D H. Doane. head of the farm management bureau of the university, and C. M. Long, farm expert, have just finished a campaign of education among the farmers of Johnson county looking to the eradication of hog cholers from the county. They visited 19 schoolhouses in the county, where they outlined the policy of eradication to the farmers and hog raisers. At each of these places visited clubs were organized.

New Elevators at St. Mary. St. Mary.-The Whangler Boiler Works of St. Louis has just completed six new steel elevators for the St. Mary's Mill company of this city. This makes seven steel elevators in this city, with a total capacity of 122,000 bushels.

Bankers' Groups May Merge. Kansas City.-Proposed consolida tion of groups i, 5 and 9 of the Missouri Bankers' association in one organization to be known as group 4 was one of the principal topics discussed at the annual meeting of the association.

Pawnbroker Shoots Joplin Man. Springfield,-William Taylor of Jop. lin was fatally shot at Springfield in a quarrel which resulted over the pawning of a suitcase. G. C. Walters, his assailant, is a pawnbroker.

Why Flowers Wilt. Flowers wilt because of the col aps- of the individual cells of which they are made up. They remain fresh as long as the pressure of fluid within and without the cells stays uniform.

Not Always Our Own Master. That which we are we shall teach, not voluntarily, but involuntarily, Thoughts come into our minds by ave nues which we never left open, and thoughts go out of our minds through avenues which we never voluntarily openen --- Kmerson.

FROM ALL OVER THE STATE PLAN FOR MEMORABLE TIME

Tuberculosis Day, December 7, is to Be Participated in by Hundreds of Thousands.

Nearly 600,000 members of the Young Men's Christian association of the United States, including several thousand members of the allied health leagues, hundreds of physical directors and 345,000 members of the physical departments will be urged to cooperate in the Tuberculosis day campaign during the week of December , according to an announcement made from the headquarters of this movement in New York.

Lectures and discussions on tuber culosis will be held on Sunday after noon, Devember 7, and during the week preceding or the week following that date by many organizations connected with the Y. M. C. A. Prominent speakers in various cities of the country will address these meetings. The details of the program are being worked out by Dr. George J. Fisher, director of the physical department of the international committee of the association.

Secretaries of the local branches of the Y. M. C. A., or members of the association who are interested in this subject can secure literature, free of charge from the office of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York city.

ERUPTION ON CHILD'S BODY

R. F. D. No. 2, Jackson, Mo .- "Our daughter who is ten months old was suffering from an eruption all over the body. In the beginning they were small red spots and afterwards turned to bloody sores. We tried all sorts of ointments but they did not procure any relief for our child. She cried almost day and night and we scarcely could touch her, because she was covered with sores from head to foot.

"We had heard about the Cutlcura Soan and Ointment and made a trial with them, and after using the remedies, that is to say, the Soap and the Ointment, only a few days passed and our child could sleep well and after one week she was totally well." (Signed) August F. Bartels, Nov. 25, Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."-Adv.

E Pluribus.

A small boy of three was playing in the street between the car tracks while a bigger boy of eleven or thereabouts stood on the sidewalks and looked on.

The Good Samaritan passed that way. He addressed the bigger boy. "Is the little fellow your brother?" he asked. "Yep."

"Then bring him in from between the tracks; he might get run over.' "Aw," replied the bigger boy, "that don't make no difference, we got plenty like him to home."-New York Washington Post.

Enterprising Farmer. A farmer and his wife in an out-of-the-way but interesting corner of Galloway had made their only visitor very comfortable, indeed. As the road ended with the farm and passers-by were excessively rare, the guest asked the farmer why he did not try the effect of an advertisement in one of the daily newspapers. "Ay," he said, "that's a fine notion and we have made up our minds to do it. We are just waiting till we see a bit vacant corner in the paper, and then we'll send up a line or two."-Christian Endeavor World

They Are Needed. Hamlet-Why is it, Simon, that they always have bloodhounds in an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show? Simon Legree-To find the manager on salary days, my boy.-Puck. "Darling," he said, "what would you do if I should die? Tell me.' "Please don't suggest such a thing."

said his wife. "I can't bear the thought of a stepfather for our little Johnny."

Natural Trend. "That funny fellow loves to tell tales about his wonderful bullpup." "Quite natural for a wag to take to

When you search for honor among thieves take a policeman along.

Toasted to a Golden Brown!

Sounds "smacking good," That's

Post Toasties

Tender thin bits of the best parts of Indian Com, perfectly cooked at the factory, and ready to eat direct from the package - fresh, crisp and

There's a delicate sweet-ness about "Toasties" that make them the favorite flaked cereal at thousands of break-fast tables daily.

Post Toasties with cream and a sprinkling of sugar-

Delicious

Wholesome

Easy to serve

teld by Grocers everywhere

For the Sake of Romance and Adven

ture Do Not Discourage the Seeker of Treasure

For the sake of romance and adlife it is to be hoped that the failure of the expedition which recently went to the lale of Cocos in search of pirate gold will not mark the end of treasure hunting. In the interest also of the good town of Panama, where the treasure seekers are wont to outfit and buy supplies, we should point out that negative results never really proved anything. There may be gold on Co-There may be millions of pieces of eight and pewels galore and wine which the buccaneers, who had more than they could drink, laid aside for a rainy day. Because many treasure unters have ransacked Cocos from for white all the others have labored and sought in vain.

LURE OF TREASURE HUNTING | dreams, the seers of wonderful vision, | cause one shaddock would serve a the makers of romance. All the world party of six any time. The juice loves or should love them. The news of the day is too much hardened with fruit." He also declares that the grape heavy reading. One wearles at last of political and social reform, of divorce and murder in sordid bar-rooms, venture and all that puts color into of the cost of living and the course of the markets. There is a craving for something not so commonplace for something less prosaic, for some thing which has a touch of moonshine in it. Let us not, therefore, discourage the treasure hunters with cold reason like a dash of cold water. Let us rather fan their enthusiasm and keep it forever aglow so that as long as news. papers exist there may be now and then a tale of Cocos Island wedged in between the tariff and the trusts

Who Knows the Shaddock? And here is a man who says that the shaddock isn't the grape fruit at d to end no man can say that the all—that they are no more alike than ext tre-ware hunter will not find that pigs are like gazelles. "I have," he the market. The shaddock is a big Treasure hunters are of the earth's as six grape fruits. You would have work, these threads taking the place dramas. The are the dreamers of great to get more than 75 cents for it; be lof platinum tastes very different from the grape fruit should not have any bitter taste -that this taste is imparted to it by falling on the ground, the spray from the rind being sent through the pulp by the fall. "If," he says, "Americans could get the fruit of the grape fruit as it is picked they would never again eat the fruit that has been knocked about from hand to hand." All of which is referred to the scientific men, who say that the shaddcek and the grape fruit and the pomelo are all citrus decumana, and consequently the same thing.—New York Mail.

Spiders Work for Canal. Official notice that six large spiders were working for the Panama canal came out when Colonel Goethals arranged for a man to care for them in the instrument room at the Gosgona hope From the cocoons the instrunent makers will take threads for use in all the engineers' transits on the Garden Contains Every Shrub, Flower or Plant Mertioned in Plays of Shakespeare. Tradition has it that Shakespeare

vas a frequent partaker of the hospitality dispensed at a certain tavern in Brentford and until recently this was the only direct association which this portion of Greater London could claim with the world's chief dramatist. Now, however, a tram-ride to the Shakespeare garden in Ravenscourt park, Hammersmith, brings the poet's devotees to a little green board which conveys this intimation: "This garden contains all the herbs and garen plants mentioned in Shakespeare's Many an interesting hour may be pent here in an occupation at once terary and horticultural, in locating in garden-bed and printed page the whereabouts of the plants and flowers which figure in Shakespearean

On the estate of the counters of you were a young man.

TRIBUTE TO BARD OF AVON Warwick in Essex there is a worthy tribute to the Bard of Avon. It is a piece of land known as the "Shake speare Border," and includes every lower, shrub, and vegetable mentioned by the poet. Every specimen is labeled, not only with its botanic name, but also with the quotation from the play in which it is mentioned,-London Mail. Such an Obvious Solution.

After Cave Johnson had served his long and brilliant career in congress and had retired to the quiet private life, he once stepped into the office of his nephew, Robert Johnson, then a young lawyer of much promise, and finding the young man engaged in writing with a gold pen, had occasion to remark upon the extravagance of the rising generation. "Why is it," said he, "that every young man now has his gold pen, while those of my day were content to use their goosequills?

"I suppose," replied Robert in the most innecent manner possible, "it is because there were more geese when